1 / Personal Mission Statement

Who I Am Becoming

I am becoming an Ignatian leader who uses technology with competence, conscience, and compassion. I want to grow into a disciplined and faithful man who keeps learning, leads with humility, and creates systems that solve real problems for people. Guided by integrity, perseverance, service, and cura personalis, I hope to build work that is excellent, ethical, and deeply human. In the years ahead, I want my success to be measured not only by what I achieve, but by the kind of person I become and the lives I help improve through my work.

2 / Prayer for My Future Self

Prayer for the Years Ahead

Lord, guide the person I am becoming. Form in me a heart that listens before it speaks, serves before it seeks recognition, and chooses what is right even when it is difficult. Bless my studies, future work, relationships, and decisions so that they may reflect Your wisdom and love. When I succeed, keep me humble. When I fail, keep me faithful. When I am uncertain, remind me that Your grace goes before me. Give me courage, discipline, compassion, and hope so that my life may honor You and become a source of help, peace, and encouragement to others.

I want my future to be rooted in both excellence and service: to keep striving for more, not for prestige alone, but for the greater good I can offer through the work I do and the life I live.

Long-Term Roadmap

Over the next 10-20 years, I see my vocation at the intersection of technology, leadership, and service. I want to become a professional who builds useful digital solutions, grows into trustworthy leadership, and remains grounded in faith, integrity, and responsibility.

Years 1-3

Finish my degree well, deepen my skills in software development and problem-solving, and begin meaningful work in the tech field. I want to build strong habits of discipline, prayer, and lifelong learning while starting to support my family and future goals.

Years 4-10

Grow into a dependable developer and emerging leader who can design systems that answer real needs. I hope to gain financial stability, take on bigger responsibilities, and mentor others while learning how technology and business can work together for lasting impact.

Years 10-20

Lead or help build a mission-driven team, business, or initiative that creates practical and human-centered solutions. I want to live a stable, meaningful life, remain active in service to the community, and build a future marked by generosity, purpose, and integrity.

Core Values

Values I Will Uphold

- FAITH
- INTEGRITY
- DISCIPLINE
- EXCELLENCE
- SERVICE
- COMPASSION

My goal is to build a life that is stable, useful, and God-centered. I want the systems I create, the work I lead, and the relationships I keep to reflect cura personalis, responsibility, and love in action. In this way, my career will not only be a path to success, but also a vocation through which I can serve others well.
